Gang rape photos posted online

16-year-old boy arrested and later released for allegedly taking photos of attack, then posting images on Facebook Girl, 16, believed to have been given date rape drug

KRISTEN THOMPSON
@METRONEWS.CA

RCMP say they're struggling to contain the spread of shocking photos posted on Facebook showing a drugged teenage girl being gang raped at a Maple Ridge rave.

Insp. Derren Lench said anyone caught distributing or possessing pictures or videos of the attack could be charged with child porn offences.

"Every time it's shut down on one Facebook (account), it seems to reappear and it's been shared in several communities in the Lower Mainland, so the victim has to relive it on a daily basis," Lench said.

"(The photographs are) just one portion of a larger investigation.

"Obviously the sex assault aspect is our primary focus."

The assault happened sometime late Friday night or early Saturday morning. As many as seven teens and men are suspected of having taken part while in a field outside a private party.

Toughest drunk driving laws start Monday

The harshest drinking and driving rules in the country come into effect Monday as part of an effort to reverse the increasing number of impaired drivers in the province. The new sanctions include automatic suspensions and impoundments, fines and ignition interlocks. Story, page 2.

Cops find woman, arrest her boyfriend

A Merritt woman who disappeared with her new boyfriend just days before she was to take her six-year-old son to his first day of school has been found safe on Vancouver Island, and her boyfriend has been arrested.

The RCMP say Brandy Cowell, 32, and Robert Bishop, 34, were picked up in Oceanside.

Bishop, who has a record for fraud, was arrested on an assault charge from the Merritt area.

Sex-trade sting nets seven men

Seven men were arrested during a two-day prostitution sting in Abbotsford, police said Thursday.

The alleged johns, aged 24 to 63, were not first-time consumers of street-sex trade workers and often purchase sex in other cities as well, investigators said. The sting was set up after various complaints from area businesses and residents.

Things looking up for the sails

B.C. DUI laws the toughest

▶ New rules aim for a 35 per cent reduction in impaired-driving deaths in B.C. by end of 2013 ▶ Annually, 133 people are killed, another 3,000 hurt

JEFF HODSON
@METRONEWS.CA

The toughest drinking and driving sanctions in the country aim to put the brakes on a disturbing upswing in the number of impaired drivers on B.C. roads, the province's solicitor general said Thursday.

The new sanctions, which were introduced in the spring, come into effect across the province on Monday.

"We need to change behaviour," said Mike de Jong.

"(These sanctions) are tough by design. They are intended to reverse driving trends that are headed, for the moment, in the wrong direction."

The number of impaired drivers on B.C. roads at night increased to 2.7 per cent in 2008, up from two per cent in 1995.

At night, roughly one in 32 drivers is impaired.

The new rules were created to honour four-year-old Alexa Middelaer, who was killed in 2008 by a drunk driver in Delta.

Drunk driving in B.C.

The new sanctions include:

- People with a blood alcohol level of more than 0.08 receive a 90-day driving ban, a 30-day vehicle impoundment and fines of more than $4,000.
- People caught in the warning range, 0.05 to 0.08, face punishment that ranges from fines and a three-day driving ban up to a 30-day ban and impoundment, fines and ignition interlock for a third offence.

CRIME

Child porn charges possible

Three people, including a teen boy, could be facing child pornography charges after separate investigations in the Nanaimo area.

RCMP say a 57-year-old Ladysmith man was arrested after thousands of sexual images depicting children were discovered.

In a separate case, sexually graphic images were found on a computer used by a Nanaimo boy in his early teens. RCMP say they don't believe his parents knew what he was doing.

In a third case, repair technicians found child porn on a computer that had been rented to a man who has since left the province.

Vancouver dancer bids TV show adieu

KRISTEN THOMPSON

Vancouver dancer Kirsten Wicklund is heading home this week after being voted off So You Think You Can Dance Canada in Toronto, but the ballerina says she's returning with a renewed love for her craft.

"It's definitely been a positive experience," said Wicklund, 20, who made it to the top 16 before being eliminated on Wednesday night.

Wicklund says she's going to take the weekend to "let everything soak in" before coming back to Vancouver and deciding on her next move.

"I feel like this has opened a door to a big turning point because of the exposure I got."

She said trying new dance styles — like ballroom — has inspired her to find work outside of ballet.

"I want to do everything. I want to take jobs that are far from my genre ... That's one of the reasons I wanted to do the show in the first place. Look out for me. It's just going to go up from there."

In the running

- Surrey natives Danielle Gardner and Nathalie Heath, and Abbotsford's Charlene Hart are still in the running for Canada's favourite dancer.
- So You Think You Can Dance Canada airs on Mondays at 8 p.m. and Tuesdays at 8:30 p.m. on CTV.

City lags behind in median income

When it comes to median family income, Vancouverites are trailing most of Canada.

Vancouver ranked 22nd out of 33 census metropolitan areas in a Statistics Canada report released Thursday that looked at 2008 personal income tax returns.

The Canadian median family income average is $68,860, which is slightly higher than Vancouver's at $68,670.

Leading the pack are Calgary families at $91,570, with Abbotsford-Mission coming in third-last of all areas studied at $63,680.

Rankings

Census metropolitan areas with the highest median family incomes:

- 1) Calgary, $91,570
- 2) Edmonton, $88,190
- 3) Ottawa-Gatineau, $87,160
- 22) Vancouver, $68,670

However, when it comes to Vancouver's single people, at $26,560 they're above the Canadian average of $24,810, but still rank 13th. Calgarians again rank first, at $35,710.

Regional rail hubs must get priority: Councillor

Waterfront Station and other downtown Vancouver rail hubs will need to grow in coming years — and other city development decisions should not get in their way, said Vancouver Coun. Geoff Meggs.

At Tuesday's Council meeting, Meggs said he'll propose that the city ask higher levels of government, Metro Vancouver and TransLink to consider that it is in Vancouver's best economic interest to invest in the rail hubs.

The proposal was spurred by Amtrak's Cascades rail service, which has been promised $600 million by the U.S. government to raise rail traffic between Portland, Seattle and the Vancouver hub.

"Vancouver's in a great position to benefit from possible future high-speed rail investments," Meggs said. "I want to make sure that the city doesn't lose an opportunity down the road to allow investment in this kind of sustainable transportation."

Olympic art makes its (delayed) debut

- Vase sculpture commissioned by City of Vancouver for the Olympics
- Finally installed this week

JEFF HODSON/METRO VANCOUVER

People walk by Garde-temps on Wednesday.

A key piece of Vancouver's $6-million Olympic Public Art program has reappeared under the Cambie Street Bridge at West Second Avenue.

Garde-temps, by artist Tania Ruiz Gutierrez, is a massive vase sculpture that emits vibrant coloured images of passersby and cars taken with a nearby thermal camera.

The piece was erected prior to Vancouver's 2010 Games, but was taken down because of issues with the electronics.

"When we tested it, everything went fine," said Mike Bilyk, president of MC Laser Werks, who built the massive sculpture.

"But when we brought it out here, we had way too many failures. This is a permanent exhibition. We didn't leave it so that it was continually failing."

Abbotsford man, 49, dead in shooting

A 49-year-old Abbotsford resident is dead after an early-morning shooting on Thursday.

Abbotsford police were received several 911 calls from residents in the 3000 block of Charles Court.

When they arrived, officers found a late model Toyota sedan with the body of a man who'd been shot to death.

The man, whose name is not being released, was well known to police, investigators said.

Police say they don't believe the incident was random. SARAH N. FITZGERALD

Acid attack on woman a hoax

A woman who gained sympathy worldwide after she claimed a random assailant threw acid on her face came forward Thursday with a startling admission: She inflicted the attack on herself.

Vancouver, Wash., police Chief Clifford Cook said Bethany Storro admitted under police questioning to fabricating a story about the attack, in which she suffered severe burns.

Cook said he did not know a motive for Storro's actions, but added she is "very remorseful." He said Storro was still being interviewed.

The chief said "during the course of the investigation, several discrepancies began to emerge regarding the alleged attack," leading police to search her home Thursday and interview her.

"During the interview, Ms. Storro admitted the injuries were self-inflicted," Cook said.

Police had been seeking a black woman with a ponytail after Storro described the Aug. 30 attack. She had said the woman asked her, "Hey, pretty girl, want something to drink?" then threw acid in her face.

After the incident, Storro made several media appearances and said she had received correspondence from people around the world concerned for her well being.

Consequences?

- Police Chief Clifford Cook said any decision to charge Bethany Storro with a crime would be left to the Clark County Prosecuting Attorney's Office.
- Police Commander Marla Schuman was asked whether Storro will face a charge of filing a false police report, to which she responded: "At this point, yes, that would certainly fit."

Mom claims baby a result of rape: Official

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ "George Francis," the baby born on a flight from the Middle East to the Philippines and abandoned in an airplane trash bag, is attended by nurses at the Manila airport.

Woman said she abandoned baby on plane because she feared her family's reaction to pregnancy

A Philippine woman who admitted giving birth to a baby on a flight from the Middle East and then leaving him in the plane's trash said she was raped by her employer, a lawmaker said Thursday.

The baby was found by a security guard at Manila's airport last Sunday in a trash bag unloaded from the bathroom of a Gulf Air flight from Bahrain.

Representative Lani Mercado said she met with the woman, who told her she had been raped by her employer while working as a maid in Qatar. She said her employer's wife then forced her to go back home.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Positive ID?

Authorities are still working to confirm the woman is the mother.

- Philippine Social Welfare Secretary Dinky Soliman earlier said authorities plan to conduct DNA tests and that it would take at least a month to establish whether the woman is the parent. The mother could face charges for abandoning her child, Soliman said.

20 About 20 couples, including some from abroad, have offered to adopt the boy, said Representative Lani Mercado.

Republican defends photo op with 'slaves'

Posting of photos latest of recent race-related incidents for party

BRUCE SMITH/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Glenn McConnell

The party is found itself in more race-related hot water, this time involving a top South Carolina party member who attended a recent event in Civil War attire and posed for photos with two African-American men apparently dressed as slaves.

Glenn McConnell, the president of the South Carolina Senate, is a Civil War re-enactment enthusiast who attended a function last week called A Southern Experience, hosted by a Republican women's group in a state that still flies the Confederate flag at its legislature.

Photos of him in a Union uniform posing with two smiling black men dressed in peasant clothing, one holding a washboard, have gone viral after they were posted to a Facebook site. The men were hired to appear at the event.

McConnell has defended the pictures and the so-called "antebellum" event, saying they prove how far the state has advanced rather than serving as another example of racial insensitivity in South Carolina, which once boasted the country's second-largest slave port in Charleston.

Sue Lynch, president of the National Federation of Republican Women, says organizers meant to honour the Gullah, not slavery. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Man kills mom, self

Woman suffered from arthritis, rheumatism and had surgery but it didn't help her: Gunman's brother

A man who became distraught as he was being briefed on his mother's condition by a surgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital pulled a gun and shot and wounded the doctor, then killed his mother and himself in her room at the world-famous medical centre, police said.

The gunman, 50-year-old Paul Warren Pardus, had been listening to the surgeon around midday Thursday when he "became emotionally distraught and reacted ... and was overwhelmed by the news of his mother's condition," police Commissioner Fred Bealefeld said.

"I guess he just couldn't bear to see her the way she was ... She was a dear, sweet lady." ALVIN GIBSON, GUNMAN'S BROTHER

Pardus pulled a semiautomatic gun from his waistband and shot the doctor once in the abdomen, the commissioner said. The doctor, identified by colleagues as orthopedic surgeon David B. Cohen, is expected to survive.

Pardus then holed up in the room in a more than two-hour standoff. When officers made their way in, they found Pardus and his mother, 84-year-old Jean Davis, shot to death, he on the floor, she in her bed.

Economy will slow in late 2010: TD Bank

The Bank of Canada has hiked interest rates by three quarters of a point since June

Canada's economy will slow sharply in the second half of 2010 after roaring out of the recession, according to the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

Economists with the major commercial bank say the economy has been on a good run since last fall, with an average growth rate of 4.3 per cent. But that fast pace has ended and the current third quarter will have produced a very weak 1.5 per cent advance.

Growth in the last three months of the year won't be much better, the economists said, at two per cent.

TD has also shaved half a point off next year's growth forecast, saying the economy will only get bigger by two per cent in 2011, almost a full point below the Bank of Canada's prediction.

This year's second-half estimates are also at wide variance with the Bank of Canada's last estimates of 2.8 and 3.2 per cent increases in the final two quarters, but governor Mark Carney has recently admitted he will downgrade those projections.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

The TD economists cite four major reasons for the dampened expectations — the weaker-than-expected U.S. recovery, the cooling Canadian housing market, tapped out consumers and the winding down of both government fiscal stimulus and the central bank's monetary stimulus.

NEW STADIUM? LET PEOPLE DECIDE

If we needed more proof that politicians work for themselves and not for us, it has arrived.

Other people's money

DAVID DESCÔTEAUX

Our leaders want to finance 100 per cent of the new Colisée de Québec with our taxes. Stephen Harper is hesitating, but his deputies in Quebec have already said yes. What a spectacle they made posing for photos wearing Nordiques jerseys, pandering to Quebec City voters. Pathetic.

The project will be a black hole for dollars. The idea is to cough up $400 million (about $200 million from Canadian taxpayers), and then to soak up a $3.5-million deficit each year. All without asking the private sector to throw in a single penny. Smack in the middle of an economic crisis, too, with our hospitals crumbling and our debt increasing by $135 million a day.

Do most Canadians (or Quebecers, for that matter) want to pay for this project? Makes no difference. Our politicians will do it anyway. There are seats up for grabs in Quebec.

This debate has brought out the beggars. "Montreal has its concert hall, we want our Colisée!" "We spend money on culture, why not on hockey?" Mayors of other Canadian cities are already up in arms. Everyone wants a new stadium.

Meanwhile, the mother of two who, between preparing lunches and helping with homework, has no time for lobbying, sees her taxes keep rising. Someone has to pay for the goodies handed out to the beggars.

If this is democracy, it needs an overhaul.

How? Let's hold a referendum, periodically, for large expenses. The deterioration of our public finances and the irresponsibility demonstrated over and over again by our politicians demands it.

Do taxpayers want to go into debt for a stadium? Pay a billion dollars for a G20 summit? Give subsidies to multinationals? Bring on a referendum and let's find out.

David Descôteaux is a freelance economic journalist and an Associate Researcher at the Montreal Economic Institute (iedm.org)

Evidence mishandled: Oil corps.

The companies being sued in the largest offshore oil spill in history are accusing the U.S. government of mishandling a key piece of evidence.

In a new federal court document, the company that owned the drilling rig, Transocean, says federal investigators aren't adequately preserving evidence from the rig's failed blowout preventer.

Boeing books new orders

Boeing Co. says it booked orders for 20 new aircraft in the last week, although it lost a few, too.

The new orders include 15 new 737s. That jet is a workhorse and it dominates Boeing's order book. Customers also ordered five new 777s, a larger plane often used on longer flights.

None of the customers were identified.

Returning cash GM's goal: CEO

GM repaid $6.7 billion of U.S. government money, $43 billion converted to ownership stake

It will take a couple of years for taxpayers to get back the billions they spent bailing out General Motors, but the company has a goal of returning the money, GM's new CEO said Thursday.

CEO Daniel Akerson told reporters that the U.S. government won't be repaid with the company's initial public stock offering, which could happen later this year, but couldn't answer more specific questions about the sale.

Akerson, GM's fourth CEO in less than two years, also indicated that management will be stable in the future, saying he doesn't expect to make any changes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Fred Fox

5 MINUTES WITH: FRED FOX

Fred Fox, older brother of Terry Fox, is gearing up for the annual Terry Fox Run Sunday (this year, the Fox family is running in P.E.I.). It has been 30 years since Terry Fox's Marathon of Hope. Since then, the foundation has raised half a billion dollars for cancer research. Runs are held in 40 countries around the world.

What is your memory of the Marathon of Hope?
Every night we'd sit down and watch the newscasts and keep track of what he was doing. The odd time Terry would send a postcard. It was difficult to get a sense of the impact he was having as he was making his way across the country. It wasn't until I saw him in Toronto when he ran up University Avenue toward city hall and thousands of people lined the streets and 10,000 people came to Nathan Phillips Square to listen to Terry speak. Then it came, the realization of the impact that he was having. It really hit me hard.

What is Terry's legacy?
He'd be proud to know that his legacy would be contributing to all the advances that cancer research has made. So many people have survived their battle with cancer because of what he started in 1980. He would be so proud that that is his legacy. I get a chance to speak to so many young people throughout the year, sharing who Terry was. So many young people look up to Terry as someone they can model themselves after because of his integrity, honesty and selflessness.

Steve Nash's Terry Fox documentary screened Sunday at the Toronto International Film Festival, how did the film come to be?
Steve Nash was asked to do a documentary and his first choice was Terry. He was in Vancouver and the Chilliwack area a year ago and did much of his interviews and taping then. We've seen a rough cut a couple of weeks ago. It screened at TIFF and by all accounts was very well-received.

What did you think of it?
Steve's perspective and the way he, and his cousin Ezra Holland, did it was great. The interviews were outstanding and a very compelling way to tell Terry's story. We're very happy with it and are looking forward to it being shown on TSN2 on Sunday and the Vancouver International Film Festival in October.

@REENAGACAD: My problem is with mandated high heels! Uncomfortable, dangerous on slippery floors & can cause back problems.

Metro Minute with draught masters

Has the weekend got you feeling thirsty? Then head down to Doolins Irish Pub at 654 Nelson St., Friday night at 7 to watch 16 contestants attempt to pour their way to being Canada's next Stella Artois Draught Master.

The pouring of a perfect pint of Stella Artois beer, the company says, is a ritual requiring nine steps: Purification; sacrifice; liquid alchemy; crown; removal; beheading; judgment; bestowal; cleansing. Of the 16 contestants, only two will advance to Toronto to compete in the nationals Sept. 24. The Canadian Draught Master will then be flown to London to try their hand against masters in the world final.

Bell battles high school nightmares

SASHA PERL-RAVER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

"High school is a pit of despair," Kristen Bell declares. "It's a swirling tornado of insecurities and there's really nothing good about it."

Truer words have never been spoken. But Bell isn't bemoaning her teenage years in Michigan. She's actually talking about the setting of her new film, You Again.

Directed by Bell's longtime friend and collaborator, Andy Fickman, the comedy follows a successful woman (Bell) who realizes her brother is going to marry the girl who mercilessly bullied her throughout high school (Odette Yustman), so she sets out to expose the fiancée's dastardly true colours.

With a supporting cast that includes Sigourney Weaver, Jamie Lee Curtis and newly minted national treasure Betty White, Bell was in co-star heaven while revisiting the darkest period of most people's lives.

"(In high school) you're on this learning curve of who you are and who you want to be, and you're comparing yourself to everyone around you and there's no sense to it," she says. "Everyone just wants to be loved and no one feels loved enough in high school."

Of course, the actress could just as easily be describing Hollywood. "Touché," she smirks, hoisting one well-arched eyebrow and nodding her head in agreement. "Totally."

Yet unlike many young actors on a desperate quest for attention and accolades, Bell had to be convinced to move to Hollywood, and it was You Again director Fickman who persuaded her.

The pair met 10 years ago during a production of Reefer Madness. Not long after the show closed, Bell recalls, "Andy said 'I think you need to move to L.A.,' and I said, 'You're drunk.'" After much insistence and his promise to "be your family there," Bell packed her bags and came out West.

"I have a best friendship and a weird older brother relationship with Andy, and it's a relationship I'll take to my grave," she says. "I love him so much. I do projects with him all the time, they just don't warrant this kind of press. We've done plays together in black box theaters that seat 17 people and it's because we like working together."

Scene in brief

Once again, Comedy Central has gone too far and lined up too many stars. Stephen Colbert, Larry David, Tina Fey, Ricky Gervais and Sarah Silverman are just a few of the names expected for this year's Night Of Too Many Stars: An Overbooked Concert For Autism Education, the network said Thursday. Jon Stewart will host the two-hour broadcast, which airs Oct. 21. In past years, nearly $7 million was raised, Comedy Central said.

rom-com

Alpha and Omega
Genre: Animation
Directors: Anthony Bell, Ben Gluck
Stars: Justin Long, Hayden Panettiere, Dennis Hopper
●½

These days, average animation films — even those targeted specifically at children — pack enough CGI wizardry and writing smarts to keep the bar high for this ever-evolving genre.

So it's surprising that Alpha and Omega's tale of two wolves runs in the opposite direction — a throwback to the stylistic simplicity of old-school Disney features minus the charm and heart.

This painstakingly dull movie marks out familiar animal territory: Kate (voiced by Hayden Panettiere) is a young, alpha she-wolf, groomed to be a hunter and provider for her pack. Humphrey (Justin Long) belongs to the other side of the social order — an omega who spends his day goofing around with his equally inept mates and dreams about "howling at the moon" with Kate.

Just before Kate is about to be paired off with an alpha male from a rival pack in order to keep the peace within Jasper National Park's wolf community, she and Humphrey are shipped off across the border by meddling park rangers to repopulate the forests of Idaho. Their journey back home propels the film's action, leading to a predictable rom-com-type conclusion.

It's hard to imagine kids finding any excitement in this laughs-free exercise with no reason to exist in 3-D (yet, it does). One can only sympathize with those parents who have to sit through the movie and with late Hollywood icon Dennis Hopper — this happens to be his final finished film.

Easy A
Genre: Comedy
Director: Will Gluck
Stars: Emma Stone, Thomas Haden Church, Patricia Clarkson
●●●

A surprisingly hilarious comedy about a good girl (Emma Stone) willfully accepting a less than ladylike reputation at her school to help her fellow rejects and create some semblance of a social life. The script is filled with loving nods to the '80s teen flicks of John Hughes and The Scarlet Letter, and it's a mini-miracle that the resulting film doesn't crumble under the invited comparisons. All credit goes to a playful and talented cast as well as a team of filmmakers who somehow found life left in the high school comedy. ● PHIL BROWN

Film leads to disturbing place

PHIL BROWN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Ariel Schulman and Henry Joost like to film everything they do, just in case. These days, you never know when you'll stumble onto a clip that'll make you the toast of the internet for 15 minutes.

"We're compulsive chroniclers" explained Schulman, who admits to having folders full of footage of his brother Nev leaning back in a chair in their office because "one of these days he's going to fall and I might want to build a video around it."

"The audience experience has been really great, which was a huge surprise. I had no idea what to expect from watching it with strangers in large numbers."
ARIEL SCHULMAN

That instinct lead to their debut feature Catfish about Nev's odd online relationship with a family that led to an in person meeting with disastrous and distressing results. Revealing more would be unfair, but the digital documentary caused a stir at Sundance and the obvious joke is that it could do for Facebook what Psycho did for showers.

Schulman and Joost filmed every moment of the online affair hoping that they'd make "a short film about a little friendship that started online between a painter and a photographer." They ended up with something far more complex and disturbing, but admirably continued chronicling every moment from Nev's first awkward phone call with his mysterious online admirer on. Joost admitted to only missing, "a great fight that Ariel and Nev had afterwards that I sort of wish I'd filmed, but it's probably better that I didn't because someone would have broken my wrist."

The close friendship between Ariel, Henry, and Nev managed to survive the ordeal of shooting and now they have possibly the first cautionary tale of the Facebook age. The film's "star" Nev has found that audiences "are immediately familiar with me after seeing the movie and come up and say, "oh my god Nev, I've got to tell you something.'" As a result the filmmakers have been inundated with similar tales of online deception. "These stories are happening all over the place, but they're just not getting caught on film," said Ariel.

As to what the team have planned next now that they've broken into the world of professional filmmaking, Ariel joked, "We'll probably just film Nev every one in a while and hope for the best."

▶ Catfish is a documentary that explores how a friendship developed on Facebook leads to unexpected conclusions.

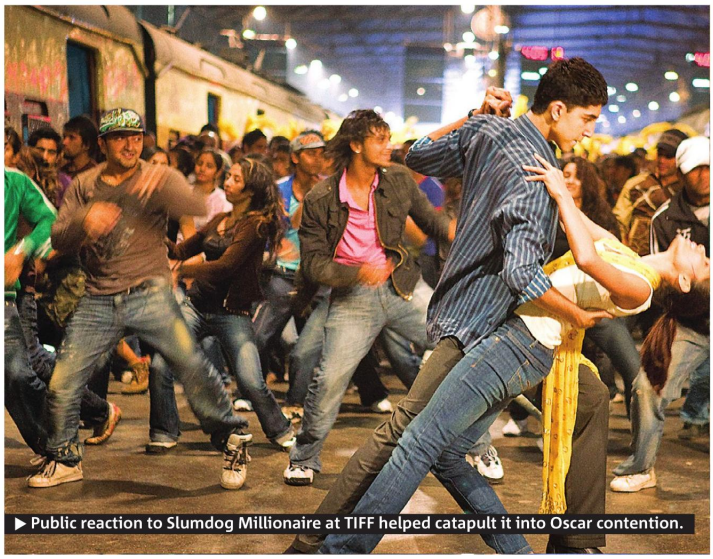
TIFF CREATES MANY BIG SUCCESSES

During the Toronto International Film Festival you'll see stars sipping lattes at the Starbucks in Yorkville and dolled-up on the red carpet at Roy Thompson Hall, but my favourite way to see them is up on the big screen. Celebrity gazing is a pleasant enough festival diversion, but the star attraction is the films.

Over the last 35 years the festival has run over 10,000 movies through their projectors. Obviously not all have gone on to win awards and break office records, but the festival has a surprisingly good track record at picking and showcasing hits.



▶ Public reaction to Slumdog Millionaire at TIFF helped catapult it into Oscar contention.

Chariots of Fire, The Big Chill and The Princess Bride all took home the fest's People's Choice Award and recent Oscar winners from TIFF include four award winner No Country for Old Men and Capote, which earned a Best Actor Oscar for its star Phillip Seymour Hoffman.

This year as the Oscar buzz is already building for TIFF treats Black Swan (director Darren Aronofsky's follow-up to The Wrestler), Paul Giamatti's performance in Barney's Version and the Bruce Springsteen documentary The Promise: The Making of Darkness on the Edge of Town, I thought I'd look back at movies that used Toronto as a springboard for later success.

SLUMDOG MILLIONAIRE

Although not technically a TIFF premiere — it was first shown at the Telluride Film Festival — director Danny Boyle credits the Toronto festival audience's reaction to the film with saving it from a terrible fate — going direct to DVD.

RAY

Before Ray premiered at the 2004 TIFF Jamie Foxx was best known as a comedian whose credits included dressing in drag as the ugliest woman in the world, Wanda Wayne, on In Living Color who occasionally dabbled in serious films like Oliver Stone's Any Given Sunday. After TIFF he was a serious actor, on the path to winning a Best Actor Academy Award.

ROGER & ME

At the start of the festival 21 years ago Michael Moore was an unknown documentary filmmaker hawking a self-financed film about the economic impact GM CEO Roger Smith's decision to close down several auto plants in Flint, Mich. By the festival's end Moore was a media celebrity with a People's Choice Award and a film that would go on to win ten other major awards — although no Oscar. Moore would have to wait until Bowling for Columbine — which also played at TIFF — won the 2003 statue for Best Documentary.

FALL ALBUM RELEASES

The summer was a little light for new rock releases. The fall is a different matter.

Jimmy Eat World/Invented (Sept 21):
Phoenix outfit releases their seventh album using the producer that helped shaped their early sound.

Maroon 5/Hands All Over (Sept 21):
Produced by the former Mr. Shania Twain — Robert "Mutt" Lang (a fan of the band). The band has dropped hints that this may be their second-to-last album.

Santana/Guitar Heaven (Sept 28) The Greatest Guitar Classics of All Time (Sept 21):
Carlos decides he can improve upon (or reimagine) rock standards from everyone from Van Halen to Jimi Hendrix.
Vocal help comes from Chris Cornell (Soundgarden), Scott Weiland (Stone Temple Pilots) and others.

Neil Young/Le Noise (Sept 28):
This one is coming on CD, vinyl, via an iTunes download, Blu-Ray and as both an iPhone and iPad app. Producer Daniel Lanois promises that "there's nothing else out there like it."

The Doobie Brothers/World Gone Crazy (Sept 28):
It's back to the Tom Johnson-fronted Doobies and producer Ted Templeman, the guy behind the band's big early hits. Deluxe edition features a DVD with a retrospective of the band's 40-year career. Oh, and Willie Nelson shows up.

Phil Collins/Going Back (Sept 28):
With the Genesis reunion, work on soundtracks and health issues (including one that precluded him from playing drums), Phil's first solo album in eight years features covers of his favourite Motown and soul songs.

Soundgarden/Telephantasm (Sept 28):
Resurrected after 13 years on ice, SG reintroduces themselves to a new generation with a retrospective collection.

Bedouin Soundclash/Light on the Horizon (Sept 28):
After a hiatus necessitated by touring burnout, a new drummer should inject new life into Kingston's best known alt-ska/alt-reggae band.

Ben Folds and Nick Hornby (Sept 28):
Piano dude supplies the music. High Fidelity/About a Boy/Juliet, Naked author supplies the lyrics. This could be interesting. Or a mess.

Finger 11/Life Returns Electric (Oct 05):
Them vs. You vs. Me will be a tough act to follow, but the first single, Living in a Dream, has already reached No. 1 on the Canadian rock music charts.

Kings of Leon/Come Around Sundown (Oct 19):
Has the requisite five-syllable album title. Some of these songs have already been road-tested.

U2/Songs of Ascent (Who knows?):
They have to get something out there to counteract the apathetic reception of No Line on the Horizon.

Blazing his own trail

KEITH CARMAN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

"This is the first record of mine I enjoy listening to," admits singer/songwriter Danny Michel in regards to his latest independently-released effort Sunset Sea.

"I think you'd be hard-pressed to find any musician that likes their old albums, though. If you were content with them, you wouldn't be moving forward. I like parts of them but writing music should be a constant learning curve."

With some seven predecessors as well as accolades including Juno nominations and boasting Texas rocker Alejandro Escovedo as a dedicated fan, the Kitchener-Waterloo native hasn't exactly been issuing faltering material over the past decade-plus. However, when it comes to Sunset Sea — available at shows and via dannymichel.com — the affable Michel notes he has finally shed the confines of speculation and worry on a creative level.

Surprisingly, the results on Sunset Sea showcase Michel eschewing his singer/songwriter legacy. A confident album blossoming with upbeat world-meets-Caribbean vivaciousness and virulence, it is inspired by the desire to embrace fresh elements and escape the trappings of his traditional aural spectrum. Still, Michel admits that he only realized the unrest that taking such a divergent path might cause amongst proponents after the fact.

To that extent, Michel reveals how the experience of creating Sunset Sea was a self-discovering journey both musically and lyrically. Recording in such diverse locales as Belize, Costa Rica and Holland with guests including longtime colleague Sarah Harmer, it is the direct result of that aforementioned desire to evade stagnancy.

"I've gotten pretty sick of rock and singer/songwriter music," he declares. "I include myself in that...I find it to be sort of the same and whiny. I wanted to write some positive songs that have some greater message than, 'I'm sad 'cause this girl doesn't like me.' Sunset Sea turns up they lyrics; focuses on what's really important in life ... somehow."

Conman with a conscience

Newcomer James Wolk stars in Lone Star as loveable bigamist New drama features acting heavyweight Jon Voigt as oil company patriach

IAN JOHNSTON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

SUBMITTED

Wolk plays smooth-talking Bob Allen in Lone Star

Actor James Wolk says selling ladies' shoes helped prepare him for the role of bigamist conman Bob Allen in the new drama Lone Star.

"Bob's greatest tool is the ability to make people believe in him," says Wolk, who began selling shoes at 12 in his father's Michigan store.

"I learned the ability to connect with people. They aren't going to buy shoes unless they're comfortable with the person they talk to."

In Lone Star — which premieres Monday on Global — Bob's gift for gab has landed him a wife who is part of a billionaire Texas oil family that Bob hopes to fleece. Add to that another wife and con in a small town, and Bob's got a lot on his flimflam schedule.

Yet, trouble only begins to brew when Bob develops a conscience and starts having true feelings for his two families. Soon, he's scheming not only to make money, but to fix the damage he's done in both his lives.

"Bob is himself in both worlds. And both worlds fill voids in his life," says Wolk, 25.

According to Lone Star Executive Producer Amy Lippman (Party of Five), casting a relative unknown like Wolk opposite acting heavyweight Jon Voight (who plays an oil company patriarch) wasn't the original plan. But Wolk won them over.

Still, Lippman thinks there's a real advantage to having someone new on screen. "There will never be another moment in time where people won't know who he is."

Lippman says the show can only work if the audience sides with Bob, who is "doing something really immoral" even while he's trying to make things right. Still, Lippman says Bob's scheming and lies won't ultimately make or break the show.

"It'll be successful if you can interest audiences in those two marriages — something that isn't always related to a secret or a lie."

Charming man

Actor James Wolk had a gift for the gab even as a young man selling shoes at his dad's Michigan store

- Newcomer advantage: "People will be discovering him (Wolk) in the role and won't bring past roles into the mix," says Lippman.
- Lone Star premieres Monday night on Global.

"AEG had legal duties to Michael Jackson to treat him safely and to not put him in harm's way," the lawsuit states.

"But AEG, despite its knowledge of Michael Jackson's physical condition, breached those duties by putting its desire for massive profits from the tour over the health and safety of Michael Jackson."

Food fit for the stars

Hungry Hollywood celebrities turn to the Elmore sisters for practical, nutritious meals

Jewels and Jill Elmore know what John Travolta has in his fridge, the food Arnold Schwarzenegger and Maria Shriver are serving dinner guests and that Jennifer Aniston is high on energy-giving nutritious foods.

The two sisters are personal chefs to many of Hollywood's celebrities, often travelling with them or preparing the daily menus for their families at home.

Although the pair didn't have formal culinary training, "we attended a lot of cooking and nutrition classes before joining a catering company," says 43-year-old Jewels.

But as word spread about the sisters' abundant talent for food shopping and preparing delicious meals, they decided to start their own business.

"So we are employed by one client at a time to work their home on a full-time basis," says Jill, 40.

Raised in California in a large and closely knit Mexican-American family, the pair learned their culinary skills mainly from a grandmother.

When they were growing up, the family kitchen was the place that held them all together, they say.

"Along with cooking and eating, there were debates, celebrations, lots of laughs and sometimes tears," says Jewels. "In our family home, everyone gravitated to our kitchen."

And what makes them sought after is their emphasis on healthy eating. This is particularly important to the celebrity clientele they have amassed.

"Sometimes our clients are working on a specific movie role and they have to lose a few pounds for a bathing suit shot," says Jewels. "And there are others who have to gain some weight.

"Most of all, the people we work for are really concerned about consuming healthy fresh foods so they can keep their energy levels up."

The pair shop at farmers markets, fishmongers and butchers for the food they serve their clients.

"We tell them what we have that is fresh and give them some options for what we can make them that day," says Jill.

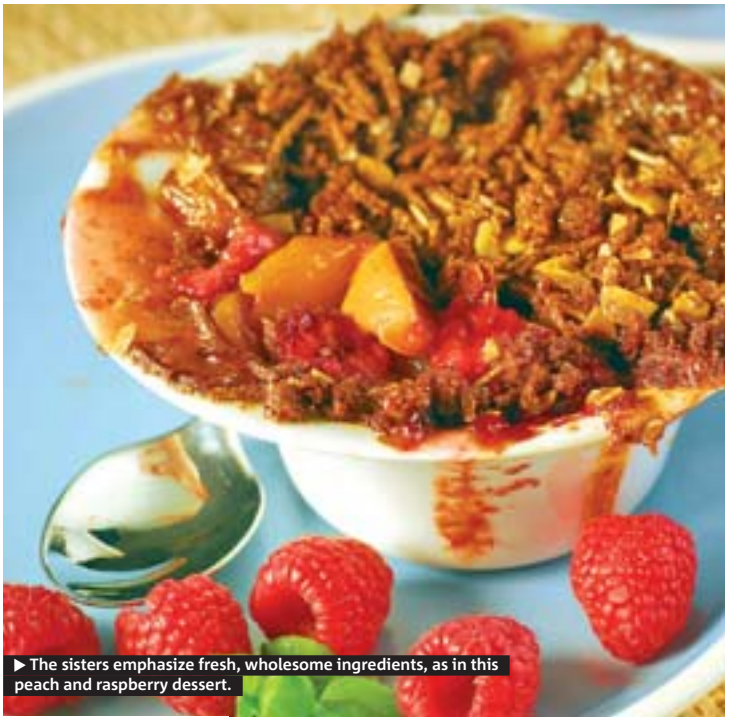
Both sisters have young boys — one is 2 1/2 years old while the other is three.

"At the moment we are sharing a job because of two small children," says Jewels. "We take turns working a normal five-day week and the one who is not working looks after the boys."

Last year, with new babies and their regular cooking tasks, the sisters also found time to publish a cookbook, "The Family Chef" (Celebra Books) with a glowing foreword from Aniston.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Jewels and Jill Elmore say they're looking forward to trying Toronto's restaurants.



▶ The sisters emphasize fresh, wholesome ingredients, as in this peach and raspberry dessert.

Pro tips

Personal chef sisters Jewels and Jill Elmore share some of their cooking tips:

- Fishy When you saute or grill fish, preheat the oven to 230 C (450 F) before you begin cooking. If the fish browns before it has cooked through, finish it for a few minutes in the oven.
- Hot pot Always make sure the pan you cook with is very hot before you begin. You'll use less oil because the heat disperses it quickly and evenly and everything will cook better.

RECIPE

The task of feeding celebrities is not for the faint-hearted, to be sure, but Jewels and Jill Elmore have it down pat, and are changing the way many famous stars eat. Here from their cookbook The Family Chef is a special dessert they created.

Preparation:

Peach and Raspberry Crisp

1. Preheat oven to 190 C (375 F).
2. In a large bowl, combine raspberries and peaches. Add lemon zest, lemon juice, honey, sugar and flour. Toss gently to coat. Place mixture in bottom of 4 ramekins, dividing evenly.
3. In a bowl, combine bran cereal, almonds, brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add butter and combine until crumbly. Place mixture on top of fruit, dividing evenly.
4. Bake for 35 to 40 minutes or until bubbly. If topping is browning too quickly, tent with foil for the last 10 minutes.
5. Let cool for 10 minutes before serving. Garnish with fresh raspberries and mint. Makes 4 servings.

Ingredients:

Peach and Raspberry Crisp

- 170 g (6 oz) raspberries
- 750 ml (3 cups) peaches, peeled and sliced
- 5 ml (1 tsp) lemon zest
- 5 ml (1 tsp) lemon juice
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) honey
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) granulated sugar
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) all-purpose flour

Topping

- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) bran cereal
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) sliced almonds
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) brown sugar
- 5 ml (1 tsp) cinnamon
- Pinch ground nutmeg
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) cold butter
- Fresh raspberries and mint sprigs, for garnish

Berries

The health benefits of berries and walnuts could include activating the natural house keeping and anti-ageing of our brains. Their anti oxidant and anti-inflammatory properties are already recognised, but recent studies by the American Chemical Society have shown that the whole fruit extracts of both berries and walnuts activated the housekeeping process referred to as "autophagy" in the cells. This mechanism cleans up and recycles proteins linked to age-related memory loss and mental decline.

Double duty crop

A Napa Valley vintner is growing more than grapes

ERIC RISBERG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Ranch manager Francisco Perez with a handful of Tomatillos. More than jut a cover crop, the tomatillos are perfect for making salsa.

Eric Titus is proud of the grapes his family grows in the Napa Valley. The salsa they produce isn't too shabby, either.

And both come from the same patch of land.

That's because Titus (who runs Titus Vineyards with his winemaker brother, Phil), has elevated a common viticultural practice to a culinary one. For tucked beneath the grape vines on the family's property are tomatillo plants, a cover crop that improves soil and helps keep the vines from growing unchecked.

It also produces an abundance of bright green and purple fruits that resemble small tomatoes with a mildly sour, astringent flavour that works wonders in salsa.

Planting cover crops in vineyards is a widely practised farming technique. Eating cover crops is a bit more unusual.

Usually, the crops, often cereals, are tilled back into the soil once they've served their purpose, says Jennifer Kopp Putnam, executive director of the Napa Valley Grapegrowers.

Growing crops between grapevines won't work as a large-scale effort, notes Titus. For one thing, it's too much trouble to navigate around one crop while tending to the other.

But at Titus, the two-crop system works. The family plants conventional cover crops during the winter, which are tilled under. But in summer, the tomatillos flourish in the loamy soil favoured by Cabernet Sauvignon. The tomatillos compete with the vines, controlling growth, and ripen before harvest so they're out of the way before the picking crews move in.

The tradition began about 25 years ago when Francisco Perez, now ranch foreman, cut up some of the tomatillos he liked to use to make salsa and spread them around the vineyard. Spring rains determine how big the crop will be and managers never know which rows will take off in a given year.

Though cover crops are an old concept, they've only really been embraced in the Napa Valley for about the last 15 years or so, Putnam says.

The objective is to find balance in the vineyard — just the right amount of water availability or sun — and the tactic is constantly evolving, with new ideas on when and what to plant.

Some still like the idea of meticulously manicured vineyards.

"Some of the more old guard guys just think you've got a messy weed out in your vineyard," says Titus, who runs Titus Vineyards with his winemaker brother, Phil. "For me, it's more about getting that vigour control and having the benefit of something you can consume as well and have fun with."

The final destination for Titus tomatillos is a session on the grill under Perez' careful supervision. The pale green globes blister and burst with flavour before being mixed with roasted peppers, a little garlic and some vinegar.

"Everybody likes it," Perez says.

What does it pair with?

"A cold beer," Titus says with a laugh.

The penne of perfection

Here is a fast easy family night supper which will please pasta lovers at your table.

Cheddar chicken penne

Preparation:

1 In a large skillet, melt half of the butter over medium-high heat; brown chicken strips in batches, transfer to a bowl.

2 Add remaining butter to skillet. Add green onions, apples, nutmeg, 3 ml (3/4 tsp) salt and 1 ml (¼ tsp) pepper; cook, stirring for about 3 minutes or until softened. Add vinegar, scraping any bits stuck to the pan. Stir in cream and cranberries; bring to boil. Reduce heat and boil gently, stirring often, for about 3 minutes or until slightly thickened.

3 Meanwhile, in a large pot of boiling, salted water, cook pasta for about 10 minutes or until tender but firm. Drain and return to pot.

4 Add chicken and any accumulated juices to sauce; simmer for about 3 minutes or until chicken is no longer pink inside.

5 pour over cooked pasta and sprinkle with cheese; toss to coat. Season with salt and pepper. Serve sprinkled with chives.

Buzz building as camps open

Hot topics

- Players return to their clubs Friday as training camps open around the NHL
- Here's a look at five burning questions as teams start preparing for the regular season

1. CUP HANGOVER?

The Chicago Blackhawks have been the talk of the hockey world — as much for their unusual off-season as their Stanley Cup win in June. With a number of players who helped make them a champion now calling other cities home, it will be interesting to see how coach Joel Quenneville incorporates a number of new faces into his lineup. Also, after an extremely short summer, are the competitive fires still burning in Chicago?

2. GOALIE GAME

Antti Niemi has taken his talents — and Cup ring — to northern California, where he's expected to split the Sharks crease with Antero Niittymaki. Who will emerge as the go-to guy in San Jose? After a decade in Dallas, Marty Turco is now playing for Chicago. Can he rebound from a tough year? Michael Leighton started Game 6 of the Stanley Cup final for Philadelphia. Will he be in goal when the Flyers open the 2010-11 regular season?

3. READY ROOKIES

While most expect top pick Taylor Hall to play in Edmonton this season, it remains to be seen how many others from the 2010 draft class will make the jump with him. Tyler Seguin, selected second by Boston, seems like a good bet — as do the rest of the top-5 selections: Florida's Erik Gudbranson; Columbus' Ryan Johansen; and Nino Niederreiter of the New York Islanders. A second-round pick has occasionally made a surprising ascension in the past ... are there any of those out there?

4. PUT ME IN, COACH

Guy Boucher is just 39 years old and finds himself running an NHL training camp for the first time as head coach of the Tampa Bay Lightning. Will his success in the QMJHL and AHL translate to the big leagues? After a number of years as an NHL assistant, John MacLean is finally the head man in New Jersey. Can he return the Devils back to their past glory? And how long will it take for a veteran coach — Ron Wilson in Toronto? — to find himself on the hot seat?

5. COMPETITIVE CANUCKS

The Vancouver Canucks break training camp with arguably the best chance of the six Canadian teams to put together a special season. They feature a bolstered blueline with the additions of Dan Hamhuis and Keith Ballard, and didn't lose any major pieces up front. Presumably, Roberto Luongo will return with a weight lifted off his shoulders after surrendering the captain's role this week. Will it all add up to Canada's first Stanley Cup championship parade since 1993?

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 No matter how go-getting an Aries you may be you cannot do it all on your own and that fact will be hammered home by what happens today.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 As both the Sun and Mercury are transiting the most confident area of your chart you may be tempted to think you can do as you please. Indeed you can, but that does not mean you will get away with it.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 By all means have fun today but don't neglect the needs of other people. On the home front you need to communicate more with those you love.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You seem a bit crabby at the moment, no doubt because you feel that people who should be supporting you are not doing as much as they should.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Don't get caught up in the latest craze just because your friends and family think it's the next big thing. Like most crazes it will most likely come to nothing in the long-term.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Now that Mercury, your ruling planet, is sparkling in your favour again you will see with the kind of clarity that others find scary, especially when they have something to hide.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Hidden fears are coming to the surface and if you don't keep a grip on your imagination you may start believing that the world is against you.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Spend some time alone today and get your thoughts in order. There may be lots of interesting distractions around you but none of them are worth your time and effort.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Even Sagittarians have moments when they wonder if they have what it takes, and you'll have at least one such moment today. The cure for doubt is action, so throw yourself into your work. The results will amaze and delight you.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Better times are coming. In fact they are already here, you've been missing them because you've been focused on the opportunities you wasted rather than the opportunities that are in front of you right now.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Money matters are central at the moment and even if you are one of those Aquarians who care little for possessions, you must make sure you are getting what you deserve.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 A little bit of kindness and understanding on your part will go a long way toward healing a rift that has been growing wider in recent weeks.
